This four (4) day course is for anyone that wants to improve their leadership skills. This course focuses on providing the junior leader and officer with the tools necessary to plan, execute, and finalize an operation. In this course we will cover:

- Leadership principles
- Tactical and operational lessons learned, gained during combat operations against terrorist overseas - the vast majority of these lessons can be applied to, and integrated into the law enforcement community's response to critical incidents
- Hasty and deliberate mission planning and the troop/team leading procedures
- Mission briefing and the team leader brief
- Time and asset management and decision making
- Command and control of multiple teams
- Tactics & scenario-based training - barricaded suspect, hostage rescue, active shooter, and terrorist threats
- Conducting an After Action Review (AAR)

Rob Trivino is retired from the US Army after 21 years of active service; he spent the majority of his time in service assigned as an operational member of a United States Army Special Missions Unit under the United States Army Special Operations Command. Rob has extensive peacetime and wartime leadership and tactical experience, leading small teams and larger maneuver elements in combat. He has deployed on multiple combat missions to the Balkans, Afghanistan, and Iraq and has served as a Sniper Team Leader, Operations Sergeant Major, and both Assault and Sniper Elements Sergeants Major. Rob's awards and decorations include the Silver Star, the Legion of Merit, and 5 Bronze Stars (2 for Valor). Rob created Evergreen Mountain, LLC, offering specialized training in various aspects of conflict and leadership. In 2015 Rob published, A Warrior's Path - Lessons In Leadership, a book about leadership lessons learned throughout his life and career.
